Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 20 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Wet, windy, cool weather for many tonight and through Friday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Gales, possibly severe, affecting some southwestern coastal areas, with strong winds inland across the south. Further rain at times for most areas, heavy in places. Less chilly than preceding night.

Friday:
Outbreaks of rain and strong winds continuing for most areas, heavy in places. Some brighter spells may lead to heavy showers and isolated thunderstorms across parts of England. Feeling cool.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Sunshine and scattered showers on Saturday. Cloud, rain and stronger winds moving east on Sunday followed by further showers, locally heavy with thunder on Monday. Rather cool.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.